ACRE in OBBA

Within the OBBA, ACRE will allow qualified lenders to not include 25 percent of the gross income earned by interest for tax purposes for qualified real estate loans.

- A qualified lender includes:
 - Any FDIC insured institution
 - Any state or federally regulated insurance company
 - Any entity wholly owned by a bank holding company
- A qualified real estate loan includes:
 - Any loan secured by rural agricultural real estate or a leasehold mortgage (with a status as a lien) on rural agricultural real estate
 - Any real property which is substantially used for the production of agricultural products
 - Any real property which is substantially used in the trade or business of fishing or seafood processing
 - Any aquaculture facility
- The legislation provides a prohibition for a loan to qualify for the ACRE tax benefit if the loan is a refinancing of a loan made prior to the passage of the OBBA.

ACRE in OBBB

The OBBB amends Section 265 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (IRC).

- Section (a) of the OBBB excludes from gross income 25 percent of the interest received by a qualified lender on any qualified real estate loan. Section (d) of the bill provides that any qualified real estate loan shall be treated as an obligation described in section 265(a)(2), the interest on which is wholly exempt from tax. Section 265(a)(2) operates by denying a deduction for any interest expense from indebtedness incurred or continued to purchase or carry obligations the interest on which is wholly exempt from taxes.
- Under current law, a taxpayer is generally required to include in gross income 100 percent of any interest received that is not exempt from tax but is also subject to certain limitations, permitted to deduct 100 percent of any interest expense. Absent a change to section (d) of the bill, a qualified lender would be denied a deduction on 100 percent of any interest expense from indebtedness related to a qualified real estate loan while only being permitted to exclude from gross income 25 percent of the interest received on such qualified real estate loan. The proposed adjustment to section (d) of the bill seeks to mirror the 25 percent exclusion from gross income in section (a) by limiting the portion of any qualified real estate loan subject to section 265(a)(2) to 25 percent.
